History

It is generally believed that some of the earliest residents of Lafayette were the peaceful and very primitive Ahala-n Indians. These members of the Costanoan Tribe (Coast People) were content to forage for acorns, seeds, roots and berries while enjoying the gentle climate and plentiful water supplied by the area's three fish laden creeks. The Ahala-ns took little advantage of the abundant fish and game even though deer, elk, antelope, bear, quail, ducks, geese and pelicans were bountiful. Many of the hills were heavily forested with Oak, Laurel, Buckeye, Birch, Pine and some Redwood trees. This pastoral scene went undisturbed until the late 18th century.

In 1776 the Spanish settled in Northern California and the local area fell under the jurisdiction of the Presidio and Mission of San Francisco. Other than occasional forays to capture runaway mission Indians or to chase the marauding Central Valley Indians, they showed little interest in our "Sunshine Valley" until 1834. That year Candelario Valencia received a grant of 3/4s of a league and named it Rancho Acalanes, presumably after the local Indians. Rancho Acalanes included a large part of what is now Lafayette. Three other land grants extended into our city; they were the Ranchos Laguana de los Palos Colorados, Boca de la Cañada del Pinole and Cañada del Hambre y las Bolsas.

The agricultural potential of the region went unrecognized until 1847 when Elam Brown purchased Rancho Acalanes and began to raise wheat. Brown, the first person from the United States to purchase land and settle in Lafayette, was soon followed by others. When California became a state in 1850 the settlement, then called Centerville, had begun to grow, and by the time the 1852 census was taken it had a population of 76 men, women and children.

In 1853 Elam Brown built the first grist mill in the area. One of the millstones can be found in the Lafayette Plaza, along with two of Lafayette's three remaining pioneer buildings.

On 1857 Benjamin Shreve, one of Lafayette's first teachers and general store owners, applied for a post office under the name of Centerville. He was informed that the name was already in use, so he suggested Lafayette, after the French general who assisted Washington in the Revolutionary War.

During the 1800's farming was a basic pursuit of area residents, but businesses began to flourish because of travel between the Redwood lumbering camp in Moraga and its shipping point in Martinez, and also because of stage line travelers from Oakland to Martinez.

In 1904 the first unlit and dangerously narrow tunnel was opened, allowing more travelers from Oakland and San Francisco into the area. The major changes didn't occur until the advent of the Oakland, Antioch and Eastern Railway linking San Francisco to Sacramento. This train later provided commuter service with eight stops a day in Lafayette.

In 1911 the Lafayette Improvement Club was founded to upgrade the quality of roads, education and fire protection. In 1913 they constructed the Town Hall, which still stands on the southeast corner of Moraga Road and School Street. The club is now called the Lafayette Improvement Association (LIA).

In 1937 the population of Lafayette was still only 4,000, but with the opening of the Caldecott Tunnel changes began to occur. The tunnel was constructed by the state at a cost of $4,000,000. For the first time travel to and from the west became feasible.

Until World War II Lafayette continued to serve as a commercial center for farmers and the fortunate San Franciscans and Oaklanders who had summer homes here. Post-war Lafayette boomed from a 1952 population of 10,000 to just under 21,000 in 1959.

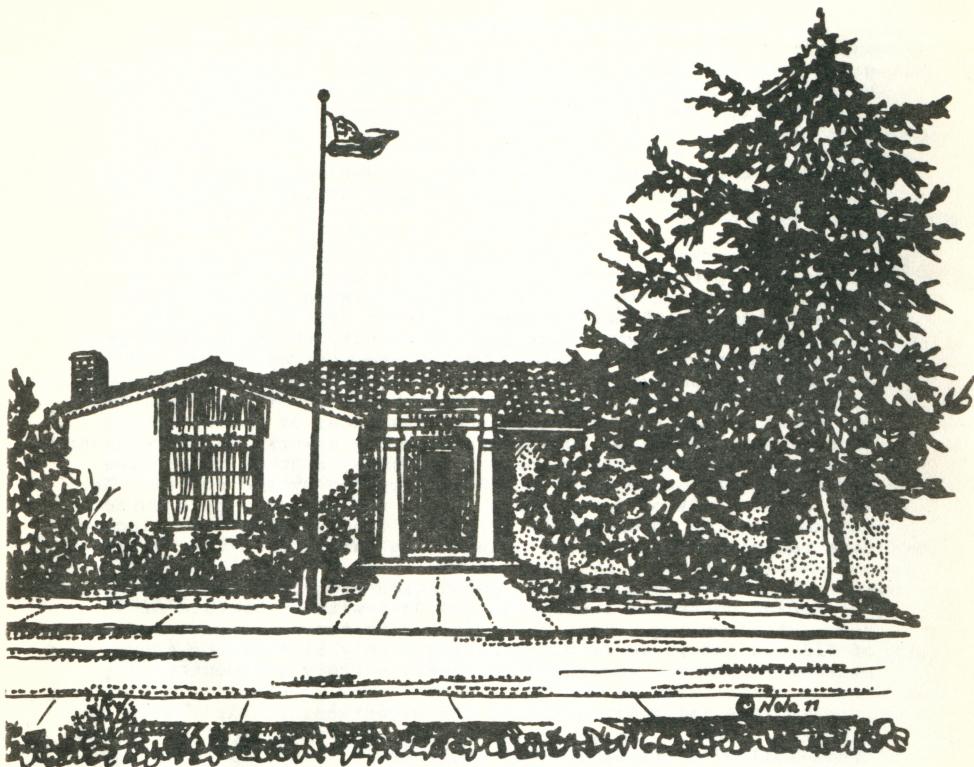

In 1958 the Chamber of Commerce (1947) established the Lafayette Design Project whose members were concerned with encouraging good architectural and landscape design in Lafayette in order to attract business people and home buyers. The Design Project also assisted the LIA in the first of three attempts to incorporate Lafayette.

Before incorporation the community was governed by the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors. Services were provided through property taxes.

In 1966 the final attempt at incorporation was initiated. The attempt progressed slowly because of factions within the proposed incorporation area who were concerned about possible increased taxes, threatened rural life style, and a boundary dispute with the Town of Moraga. Eventually the boundaries were adjusted to exclude the Reliez Valley and the Campolindo and Acalanes High Schools, where most of the opposition to incorporation centered. Once this step was taken a majority of the remaining residents seemed to agree that the advantages of incorporation were clear. The major advantages were the grants and subventions receivable from the state and the new money sources to provide services equal or superior to those provided by the county. In July of 1968 57% of Lafayette's 10,677 registered voters turned out to vote for incorporation 3,279 to 2,692. They also elected five council members, thereby launching Lafayette's city government.

The 1975 census showed a population of 19,628 in Lafayette. Our median household income was $21,027, with an average of 16 years of schooling. This was compared to the nationwide median of $15,000 and 13 years of schooling. Only 6.4% of our above-average income was earned in Lafayette - truly a commuter city.

In 1976 Lafayette got into the Bicentennial spirit with two projects. One of the projects was the construction of a bicycle trail following the Sacramento- Northern Railroad right-of way. With the other Bicentennial project Lafayette strengthened its "French connection" by acquiring a sister city in France. Langeac is appropriately close to the Chateaux de Lafayette, once the home of our city's namesake. The added recreation potential of the bicycle trail and the growing bond with the people of Langeac have added two new and interesting facets to life in our city.

Lafayette City Government

Government

In California, cities may be either Charter cities or General-law cities. Lafayette is a General-law city, as are most California cities. A General-law city may operate under a Mayor-Council or City Council-City Manager form of government. Lafayette uses the City Council-City Manager form.

Lafayette is a Contract City. Much of its work is contracted to Contra Costa County, private contractors, and private individuals. This policy often results in better cost effectiveness, minimum labor problems, and more political freedom to make needed changes. The Contract City is a phenomenon unique to California.

General Plan

The Lafayette General Plan, an official public document adopted by the City Council in 1976, is the policy guide to decisions about the physical development of the community. The main goal of the Lafayette General Plan is to "Preserve and enhance the character of Lafayette as a low-density, semi-rural residential community."

City Council

284-1968 (City Office)

5 members
4-year staggered term

Elections are held in March of even numbered years. A candidate must live in the city and be a registered voter when nomination papers are issued.

The City Council is the chief governing body and is responsible for the policy and general administration of the city. It approves the budget, may levy taxes, enacts ordinances, appoints private citizens to various boards and commissions, and appoints the City Manager, City Attorney, and City Treasurer. The mayor is selected by the City Council from its own ranks for a one year term. The City Council members serve without pay.

Meetings: 2nd Monday of the month (frequent additional meetings)
7:30 P.M., Veterans Memorial Building
Agenda available upon request.

All meetings of the City Council are open to the public, and citizens may appear before the City Council by writing a letter to the Council, stating the reasons for appearing. At present the Council sets aside fifteen minutes at the beginning of each meeting for citizen comment on any item not on the agenda.

City Manager

284-1968 (City Office)

The City Council appoints the City Manager and sets the salary and other terms of employment. The City Manager serves at the pleasure of the City Council. The appointee must have administrative and executive abilities and after appointment must live in the city (unless the City Council grants permission for him to live outside the city).

The City Manager is responsible to the City Council for the administration of the city government. He prepares and submits the proposed annual budget to the City Council for its approval. He administers contracts; purchases, or supervises the purchase of all supplies and services for the city, and reviews all proposed expenditures from city funds. The City Manager is directly responsible for each officer and employee of the city, with the exception of the City Attorney. Additional duties and powers are delegated to him by the City Council. The salary of the City Manager is $35,000 per year.

City Staff

Planning Staff

284-1968 (City Office)

General duties of the planning staff are to process applications for land use entitlements, provide information to persons making those applications, write draft ordinances, and occasionally prepare amendments to the general plan.

The Planning Director is in charge of all planning operations. The Director can delegate responsibility.

The Assistant Planning Director aids the Planning Director in the execution of that person's duties.

The Planning Technician attends the meetings of the Planning Commission and the Environmental Review Commission and prepares the minutes and agendas, processes applications for building permits, and checks compliance of projects with existing ordinances.

The members of the city planning staff must have educational background and experience in professional planning for city or county government. The staff is hired by the City Manager. Salaries for Planning Director and Assistant Planning Director range from $18,600 to $25,200 per year, and for Planning Technician, from $9,600 to $12,500.

Public Works

284-1968 (City Office)

Public Works includes all road work, storm drains, and ditch and creek maintenance. These duties are contracted to the county, a private contractor, or are performed by city employees.

Clerical Staff

284-1968 (City Office)

Lafayette's clerical staff consists of 2 full-time secretaries, 1 part-time secretary, and 2 part-time commission aides.

City Attorney

284-1968 (City Office)

The City Council appoints the City Attorney and sets the terms of employment. He serves at the pleasure of the City Council. The City Attorney must be a licensed, practicing California attorney. He receives a retainer of $13,200 per year for advising the city government, commissions, and City Council, and for reviewing all legal documents involving the city. Court cases and court appearances are handled at an additional hourly rate.

City Commissions

Lafayette has ten official commissions under the jurisdiction of the City Council and advisory to them. All members are appointed by the City Council and are unpaid. Commission meetings are open to the public and notice of meetings is given, as is required by law. (Application forms for positions on city commissions are available at the City Office. For requirements, see desired commission.)

The commissions meet regularly. For current information on times and places, call 284-1968 (City Office).

Planning Commission

State law demands that this commission prepare a general plan for the city, which must be adopted by the City Council. The general plan concerns land use, circulation, conservation, open space, housing, public safety, noise, scenic highways, and seismic safety. The commission hears and acts upon applications for land use permits, rezoning, and new subdivisions. The commission has staff support.

Walkways Commission

9 members

3-year term

Appointee must be a member of a group representative of the community.

The purpose of this commission is to establish and administer a comprehensive plan for the design, financing, construction, and maintenance of a system of walkways. The commission has no staff support.

Youth Commission

9 members

1-year term

Appointee must come from a local high school or intermediate school, with one member-at-large.

This commission attempts to interest and involve young people in city and community activities and in city government. The commission has no staff support.

Recreation Commission

Appointee must be a resident of the city.

The commission processes citizens' requests for traffic changes, investigates sources of funds, advises police on the deployment of traffic control officers, and recommends street construction projects to improve traffic safety. This commission has staff support.

Commission on the Needs of the Aging

11 members

3-year term

At least nine of the appointees must be residents of the city, and at least five must be 60 years of age or older.

The purpose of the commission is to identify special needs of citizens over 60 years old and to make reports and recommendations to the City Council about appropriate action. The commission has staff support.

CATV Advisory Commission (Community Antenna Television)

7 members

3-year term

Appointee must be a resident of the city, with at least one customer from each of the two CATV firms servicing Lafayette.

Duties of the commission include advising the City Council on matters affecting CATV franchising, service, and rates. This commission has staff support.

Parking Commission

5 members

3-year term

Appointee must be a resident of the city or own a substantial interest in a business, or business property, affected by off-street parking.

The commission promotes more off-street parking in the downtown area by surveying existing off-street parking and pin-pointing areas of need; investigating alternative methods for financing parking facilities; assisting property owners in forming special assessment districts to finance parking; and drafting a new parking ordinance. This commission has staff support.

Property Protection Commission

7 members

2-year term

Appointee must be a resident of the city.

The purpose of this commission is to reduce burglaries through an educational program on self-protection and neighborhood involvement. This commission has staff support. The program is funded by a federal grant for a one year period only. At present there are no plans for continued staff support after the grant runs out.

City Financing

Lafayette is a no-tax city. The city receives income from a variety of sources outlined in the Fiscal Picture section. Because the city levies no "general purpose" property tax, it has no city finance department and has no specific dates for budget hearings or approval. For a copy of the city budget or dates of budget hearings contact the city office.

A city treasurer is required by state law. In Lafayette he has virtually no duties and receives no salary. (The City Manager handles most of the financial duties.) Contra Costa County does the assessing for Lafayette.

At this time the City of Lafayette has no indebtedness and has issued no bonds.

City of Lafayette Fiscal PictureTaxes

The assessed valuation for 1976-77 is estimated at $114,000,000.

The city levies no general purpose property tax. Although the City Council has the authority by law to levy a property tax of up to $1 per $100 assessed valuation, it has never exercised this authority and has gone on record stating that a general purpose property tax would be levied only after the citizens had voted and approved it.

A special property tax is collected in the city within two separate maintenance districts--a core area maintenance district and a street lighting maintenance district. The taxes are collected by the county and returned to the city to pay the costs of services in the areas covered.

There is no business license tax in the city.

Income

Since Lafayette does not levy a general purpose property tax, where does the money to operate the city come from?

A portion of the money collected by the State of California in the form of sales tax, cigarette taxes, motor vehicle in-lieu taxes, and gasoline taxes is returned to Lafayette. Federal money comes to the city through federal revenue sharing and community development grants, and the public employment program (CETA). Additional state money comes to the city from utility franchise fees, a property protection grant and a traffic safety grant. Locally, money is collected from traffic fines, parkland dedication fees, and interest on reserves.

Some funds are earmarked and can only be used for special projects such as street construction, traffic safety, parkland development, and walkway construction.

LAFAYETTE MEMBERSHIP ORGANIZATIONS

The City of Lafayerre participates in three membership organizations.

The Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) 841-9730

ABAG was established in 1961 to meet regional problems through the cooperative action of its member cities and counties. ABAG is owned and operated by the local governments of the San Francisco Bay Area.

The agency's local funding comes from annual dues that amount to about 12 cents a resident of each member city and county. Lafayette's annual dues are approximately $1,000 per year.

The League of California Cities 843-3083

The League of California Cities staff provides a reference library in Sacramento for membership cities. Available are publications of adopted ordinances from cities in California, and state and federal statutes affecting cities.

The staff plans conferences on timely topics and provides training programs for new council members. Four full-time lobbyists in Sacramento provide services there. A legal staff is available for consultation.

Local funding comes from annual dues based on the population of a city. Lafayette's annual dues are approximately $1600 per year.

Contra Costa County Mayors' Conference 841-4040

The mayors of cities in Contra Costa County meet monthly with an executive director to share information and concerns and to plan appropriate action at the county, regional, state, and national level when necessary.

The Mayors' Conference makes appointments to the Executive Committee of ABAG, LAFCO, (Local Agency Formation Committee), Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, Metropolitan Transportation Commission, Criminal Justice Agency, Airport Land Use Commission, and East Bay Division League of California Cities.

Local funding comes from annual dues. Lafayette budgets annually approximately $1,000 for this.

CONTRA COSTA COUNTY

Contra Costa County is one of 58 counties in California. The counties were set up to administer state laws at the local level and to be responsible for duties, such as courts and law enforcement, health, and sanitation, welfare and corrections, flood control, roads and bridges, libraries, land use planning, appraising property values, levying and collecting taxes, administering elections, licensing, maintaining vital statistics and many other governmental activities.

Within Contra Costa County there are 15 cities. These cities were formed to provide services not available through the county or to improve services already provided by the county. Basic county services are not stopped once a municipal government is established; and the citizen continues to pay county taxes. Some cities, such as Lafayette, contract with the county for specific services.
